Howard Smith, Carmel Artist, Wins First Prize in Oil Painting Division At Santa Cruz State-wide Exhibition

First prize in the division of oil paintings at the 15th annual statewide exhibition which opened on January 30th in the Santa Cruz Civic Auditorium, under the sponsorship of the Santa Cruz Art association was this week awarded to Howard E. Smith, well-known Carmel artist and member of the board of directors of the Carmel Art association.

Mr. Smith's painting, reproduced above, is entitled New England Neighbor, and is one of several portraits of local people made during a period, five or six years ago, when the artist and his family occupied their summer home at Cape Ann, Massachusetts. A companion canvas hangs in the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia. Its subject, Miss Bartlett, is the great grand-daughter of the patriot who captained the frigate Constitution, "Old Ironsides," at the time of its historic encounter with the Guerriere, and furniture which appears in the picture was fashioned from the wood of the original vessel.

This is the second occasion on which Howard Smith has won first prize in a California exhibition since coming to make a home in Carmel five years ago. His portrait of Robinson Jeffers was selected for this honor by the jury of the last Sacramento State Fair. A native of West Windham, N. H., this distinguished painter and etcher has exhibited in the leading cities of the United States, is a member of the National Academy of Design and other leading art societies and is represented by portraits in the U. S. Treasury Building, the State House of Boston, Brown University and among

Legion of Merit Award For Major Leland G. Cagwin

Major Leland G. Cagwin, on active duty in the South Pacific with the Infantry Division of the U. S. Army, has been given the Legion of Merit award, his wife, the daughter of Howard E. Smith, learned yesterday. This is the second honor to come to the Smith household in a few days, as Smith was notified early in the week that he had won first prize in oils in the Annual Art Exhibit at Santa Cruz.

Major Cagwin's citation reads: "For exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service. When a first lieutenant he was co-leader in constructing defense positions on a small island in the Pacific. He completed the mission admirably before the permanent garrison arrived."

Major Cagwin, who already wears the Distinguished Service Cross, is a native of Carbon-dale, Pennsylvania, and graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point with the class of 1940. He came to the

All Carmel Unites For Bond Drive

One big day after another is to be the record of the Fourth War Loan Drive here because Carmel organizations have stepped into the picture to help put the loan drive over.

Carmel Business association gets the first call on "days." A. C. Lafrenz, president, has his men and women workers lined up and ready for the start on Friday, February 4. A thorough canvass of business is to be made and the needs of our boys in the front lines are to be told to the men on the home front.

Following this the Carmel Woman's Club and the Carmel Lions will have a whirl at bond selling. Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston, president, stated at a recent meeting of the bond committee with Chairman Harrison Godwin, that her members would not let any other organization out do the women.

"We have given the most precious things we have, our sons and

Only Four Present To Get Diplomas At Graduation

Friday, January 28, was a big day for eleven of Carmel High's students, graduation.

The ceremonies started off with a selection from the school orchestra, "Deep River." Then the Student Body President, Jack Fremont, led the students in the Pledge of Allegiance and the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, afterwards the new Student Body officers were given the oath of office and took over the meeting.

When the meeting was over, Superintendent Getsinger called the graduates up to the platform. After a short speech, he introduced Mr. Hugh Comstock, who gave out the diplomas. There were only four of the eleven graduates present, however. The others were either in the service and unable to attend or had already started going to college.

The following is a list of the graduates:

Baird Bardarson, (present) Ann Casati, James Boylan, Betty Lou Fonteneau, Jack Fremont, (present), Donald Haskins, Lillis Harris, Charles Heebner, Mary Virginia Shone, (present), Mary Ada Torras, (present), and Suzanne Watson.

Honor Roll of Carmelites in Military Service

This printing of the Honor Roll of Carmel citizens in the armed forces during the Fourth War Loan Drive is a reminder that unless we here and in the towns and villages throughout the nation, through our purchases of war bonds, supply them with arms and materials of war, they cannot win through to victory no matter how great their sacrifice.

Soldier Writes Of Vesuvius Dressed in Snow

From the theatre of war in Italy a soldier remembers the hospitality of the Carmel Art Association which for over a year has been entertaining service men with music at the gallery on Sunday afternoons.

Pvt. James D. Trammell writes by V-Mail to Mrs. Elizabeth Cass, gallery curator:

Dear Libby:

Fortunately we were at during the Christmas and New Year holidays. We had good meals all during that period and were generally better off than we had expected to be. Since New Year the weather has been frosting almost every night. It nearly always warms up during the day, however. The other evening when I passed by the volcano I noticed its slopes were covered with snow. It was very picturesque with its white form outlined against the dark sky and the flare and smoke rising from its peak. Nearly all the mountains have snow on them but as yet none has fallen in the valleys where we are camped. This is the citrus fruit season and we get all the tangerines and oranges we want from Italians. I'm sorry I do not have time to get some sketches of these villages before leaving Italy.

Alice Josselyn

Private funeral services were held yesterday at Howell Mission Chapel in Monterey for Mrs. Alice Josselyn, 79, who died at her home in Monterey Monday night after a six weeks' illness.

From 1914 until 1941, when she moved to Monterey, Mrs. Josselyn was a Carmel resident assisting behind the scenes in Forest Theater, Abalone League and other typical Carmel activities, as in the past two years in Monterey she took a lively interest in the Civic Club and the Cascarone Ball. Before coming to Carmel, she lived in Southern California where she had come in 1882 with her husband, the late Charles Lewis Josselyn. She was a native of Massachusetts.

Surviving her are her three sons: Talbert Josselyn, Captain Winsor Josselyn and Lewis Josselyn, all of Carmel; and her granddaughter Barbara Josselyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Talbert Josselyn.

Jr. AWVS On Look Out For Club Quarters

Junior members of Carmel's AWVS have spent busy days recently scouring Carmel for quarters that will make them a suitable club house. They are being ably abetted by Mrs. Carmelita Benson, head of Carmel's AWVS and Miss Helen Tooker, who has taken over the junior activities recently.

It is the hope of the juniors that they can find quarters in which they may do such work as falls to their lot, where they may meet in regular session and also for social purposes.

The juniors have had the clubhouse project in mind for some time. Their plans call for a simply furnished room, large enough for the holding of small dances. A combination radio-phonograph has been promised the juniors, and senior members of AWVS, or parents of the junior members will chaperone.

One of the features of the new clubhouse will be a "Coke" bar.

It is said that parents of members who know of the project are keeping careful watch on home possessions that they have seen their daughters eye.

The News and the New Eleventh

By GEORGE E. OUTLAND

The renegotiation of war contracts is a problem that is going to command increasing attention during the next few weeks.

In the First World War profiteering was a national scandal. While Americans were serving overseas and at home in the army and navy, while millions of loyal citizens were sacrificing for victory, 23,000 war millionaires came into existence, and a large proportion of this number was the result of war contracts. Post-war investigations by both houses of Congress vividly illustrated this fact, and the American people were justly indignant about it. In 1924, both the Democratic and the Republican parties included in their national platforms statements implying that in case of another war, such profiteering must not be permitted. The Vinson-Trammell Act of 1934 and the Merchant Marine Act of 1936 restricted profits on government contracts for ships and airplanes, but these laws were suspended in 1940 when the first excess-profits tax was passed. However, experience soon demonstrated that excess profits taxes were in themselves inadequate to prevent war profiteering; accordingly Congress passed the Renegotiation Act, which went into effect April 28, 1942.

Up to the present time, renegotiation of war contracts has saved the federal government (which, of course, means the American people) approximately $5,300,000,000, half of which has been in cash, and the other half in reduction of prices for future deliveries on existing contracts. As the report of the Minority Views on the Senate hearings on the 1943 revenue bill clearly states, "the present law has proved to be a strong barrier against waste in government expenditures for waging war. More than that, the reductions in prices have fostered efficiency in the use of manpower and materials. With wartime shortages, waste of these resources is an irreparable loss which cannot be valued merely in money."

Now we are witnessing an attack upon the Renegotiation Act; it is being called "un-American"; arbitrary, inflexible, unbusiness-like, etc. Your representative has received dozens of letters to this effect from all parts of the United States, urging him to vote for repeal or modification of the law. I am firmly convinced that, while there may have been some mistake in the administering of the act, the act itself is essentially sound. We have only one real choice in the matter: do the American people wish renegotiation of contracts or do the Amer-

All Groups Meet To Discuss 'Teen Age Club Room

As the Pine Cone forms were locked up Thursday afternoon a meeting of representatives of Carmel organizations was in progress at Sunset School called by Mrs. Robert Stanton, P.T.A. president to discuss ways and means of establishing a club room for 'teen age boys and girls in Carmel.

Question of primary importance is the finding of a suitable place for the club, Mrs. Howard Monroe, chairman of the P.T.A. recre-ican people wish to see war-profiteering? The choice should be simple. I feel certain it is simple for the great mass of those in the service and for those serving on the home front.

Business too will benefit in the long run from the continuation of Act; it will benefit by being free from the stigma of war profiteering and the inevitable public reaction; it will benefit from the prevention of inflation, which is one of the results of excessively high war contracts; it will benefit by the consequent lowering of the public debt which will result from continued renegotiation.

There is included in a recent committee report a table listing some 200 companies holding war contracts; this table portrays the net earnings (after taxes) for the base period 1936-1939, the net earnings for 1942, and the percent earned on net worth after taxes in 1942. Some of the findings are startling beyond belief; one Detroit company in 1942 did a total business of $127,000,000, approximately six times its average annual business during the base period, and on this business after taxes realized a net profit of 4 times its annual pre-war earnings. Another company's annual net earnings jumped from 2 million dollars in the base period to approximately 30 million in 1942 after the granting of war contracts. These instances can be multiplied many times.

Your representative is of the opinion that a war period is no time for profiteering; arms and supplies and food we must have for our armed forces, our civilian population, and our lend lease program. While soldiers and civilians alike, however, are sacrificing in many ways for total victory, it is not too much to expect that profiteering be kept at an absolute minimum. This the present Renegotiation Act does fairly and justly; it should be maintained for the duration of the emergency. Such retention will be of tremendous benefit to our farmers, our professional and business men, and our laborers; such retention will be of tremendous benefit not only to Americans of today but to Americans of tomorrow.

ation committee, told the Pine Cone. A remodeled residence would probably serve the purpose best, she said, since it would provide separate quarters for dancing, for games and for reading. She expressed the hope that someone would come forward and offer a house at a low rental. The young people could do much of the painting and remodeling themselves.

In addition to the townspeople attending the meeting the student body executive board were present.

MARION ENTERTAINS LIONS

Carmel Lions were entertained by three monologues by George Marion at their Tuesday meeting at Pine Inn. Guests of the organization were Wesley W. Kergan, and Lt. Richard Dill.

During the business meeting a letter from the Monterey Unit of the State Guard was read thanking the Lions for their contribution of $20.00 toward buying lockers for the men.

How much for a man's life?

Make Your Dollars Count for Lives Saved!

The last day of the last war, 213 Americans were killed . . . 1,114 wounded.

Every day that our dollars cut from the end of the war, will mean thousands of lives saved. Ten years from now we'll receive the money back—with interest. Ten years from now there will be more happy homes and laughing American children in those homes . . . of the boys we've saved. How many homes? It depends upon the days our dollars cut from the length of the war.

A day more or less, may be the difference between bringing our own loved ones back.

Of course we'll BACK THE ATTACK!

Of course we'll LET THEM HAVE IT!

WE'LL BUY OUR BONDS TODAY, TO CUT A DAY FROM THE LENGTH OF THE WAR!

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

Our Great Tree Climber

Our Great Tree Climber was at it again yesterday while I was chopping wood. He (our cat) ran up a tall acacia tree. When he got there and looked down he became frightened. He came part of the way down the trunk because there were a few branches. After sitting on a branch for a minute, he started head first down the tree. About half way down, his hind legs slid and he stopped, hissed at the tree, and went back up.

I had to go in the house then and my mother told me to put some food under the tree. After looking at the food awhile the Great Tree Climber was finally brave enough to come down.

—Jon Van Niel, grade 5

Two Dopes

One Sunday night I was trying to open a milk bottle when my Pop teasingly said, "Here, Dope, let me do it!"

He stuck his fork right in the middle of the milk bottle top and the milk squirted all over. Mom said, "Two Dopes!"

—Howard Veit, grade 5

We Go Visiting

Mr. Mylar showed us through the post office last Wednesday. We saw pages and pages of postage stamps and also war stamps and bonds. We saw the letters get canceled in a machine that went very fast. Mr. Mylar told us always to put box numbers on our letters and return addresses. Now we are making our own post office and writing letters to mail in it.

The March of Dimes

The dimes are on the march again To help poor children flee From Infantile Paralysis To Victory.

—Alys Knight, grade 5

News Broadcast

Ha, ha, I'll bet you think that in our class we have a "real" news broadcast. No, we don't, but we have our own wooden microphone and a sponsor, a master of ceremonies, and our own reporters. See, I told you that it is not a real broadcast, but it is a good make-believe one!

Deborah Geering, grade 5

The Fire!

There was a fire next door to me and it was very exciting. The fire trucks came up my back alley.

—Rowan Rowntree, grade 3

My Lizard

I have a lizard. I caught him on a big, big log. His name is Steedardo. I take good care of him. I love him very, very much.

—Jeff Poklen, grade 3

My Dog

My dog's name is Tippiie. She is half collie and half shepherd. I think she is the nicest dog in the world.

—Penny Bester, grade 3

Washington

Oh Washington was a good man That you can't deny. He crossed the Delaware And that was truly quite a dare. He became our leader We love and honor him So a mighty cheer for Washington Let it ring loud and clear.

—Mavis Jones, grade 5

Chinese New Year

Janet's mother came to visit our room on the Chinese New Year. She told us many interesting things about it. The people wear new clothes on that day. They fire firecrackers, they go to call on friends, and the children receive gifts. The people all pay their bills before New Year's Day.

—Beatrice Lotten, grade 3

General Stilwell Honored in 7th Grade Program

Wednesday, Jan. 19, 1944, Mrs. Uzzell's seventh grade honored Lt. General Stilwell in a culmination program on China. The children made invitations which said,

Please attend our culmination

Of a very fine old nation,

The history of the great Stone

Wall

The mystery of the Pagodas

tall,

Our map and booklets you will see

And we will serve a Chinese tea.

Mrs. Stilwell, wife of the famous general, was guest of honor. Incense was burned and a special candle-lighting ceremony honoring many things China gave the world.

After the program, the class gave a Chinese tea. Cookies made by the girls' Homemaking class were served.

—Marjorie Glennon, grade 7

Lincoln Reading Given at Wayfarer Auxiliary Meeting

The pathos, disappointment, dignity, and human sympathy of Abraham Lincoln as portrayed by Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews in "The Perfect Tribute" were brought out vividly by Miss Grayce Ethelyn McKay in her reading of that classic before the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer at their meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

The contrast between the polished oratory of Edward Everett, most noted speaker of the period, and the simplicity and spiritual force of the sad President in his "Gettysburg Address" gripped the listeners, as it had its great audience in Civil War time. The moving story of Lincoln's forbearance and sympathy for the young southern aristocrats, comforting the dying Confederate captain who had pointed out to him the real effect of his great speech, held the members of the organization silent as Miss McKay finished her reading. This presentation in memory of the martyred President will not soon be forgotten.

Before the reading, Miss Anne Barrows sang two beautiful solos, accompanied by Mrs. Stuart Haldorn. The numbers were Fear Ye Not, O Israel, by Dudley Buck; and a patriotic song written and composed by Mrs. Haldorn, America Today.

The tables for the box luncheon which preceded the program were decorated with flowers in red and white, and with gay Valentines, and a special treat of delicious heart-shaped cakes frosted in red carried out the theme. Miss Etta Paul, hospitality chairman, arranged the tables, and Mrs. Grace Howden, president was in charge of the meeting.

Phony Rent Control Officials Reported

Reports have been received by the local rent control office that unauthorized persons are representing themselves as OPA inspectors, according to Wesley W. Kergan, Director-Attorney for the Monterey-Bay Defense Rental Area.

There are two resident OPA rent inspectors, said Kergan. Mr. Carl Bensberg is stationed at the Monterey office, and Mr. Chris Thorup is stationed at the Salinas office.

OPA requires every inspector to carry an identification card which must be shown upon demand. This requirement is for the protection of the public, said Kergan. The public should demand proof from any unknown person who represents himself as an OPA official.

"BERTHA" SKILLFULLY DIRECTED

BY IRENE ALEXANDER

Saturday night's performance of Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl, current offering of the Gold Coast Troupers of the First Theatre in Monterey, under the Denny-Watrous management, was covered by this reviewer in reversal of the age-old custom of passing press judgment on a first-night showing, since only two more nights of the run remain.

At first glance this might seem to give a real break to the performers, familiar with their lines after many repetitions, and no longer hampered by mechanical difficulties. In the case of the Gold Coast Troupers the contrary is true. Their performance is voluntary, their status amateur and their time, donated through long weeks of rehearsal and longer weekends of a run, is given through sheer love of acting. No professional regulations bind them to a director's characterization planned to give support to the play as a whole rather than to an off-key display of their individual talents. To view a First Theater production toward the end of its run, when many of the cast members are already in rehearsal for the next play and some of their original number have been replaced by substitutes, is to subject the production to a very severe test indeed.

Saturday night's performance of Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl with its accompanying olio, came off with very high flying colors.

There is ample justification for the management's revival of this old favorite. As an example of antique melodrama, in which swift, violent action is nicely intermingled with the lofty, stilted sentiments of a bygone age, Bertha fits with ease into the unique and charming atmosphere of the First Theatre.

As Director, Wilma Bott has used both taste and skill, lifting its effects above those of raucous horseplay by the more subtle device of sincerity, and thereby preserving the complete illusion of the theatre, so easily destroyed by the background antics of a character making fun of his role rather than interpreting it. While now and then such antics are rewarded by a louder and often coarser laugh from the audience, First Theatre goes—and their name is legion—have made it plain they like their plays "straight"; many return again and again in search of an escape from troubled times—an escape which is only perfect when the teamwork is perfect, the characterizations sincere, the illusion complete. Just once during the performance of Saturday evening was Wilma Bott's fine job of directing jeopardized, and that only briefly.

Contributing invaluable aid to the actors are the costumes designed and made by Rhoda Johnson—always authentic, always lovely. Costumes by Mrs. Johnson have deservedly become a tradition on the Peninsula, and the close of the run finds her hovering as maternally over the adjustment of a bustle or a curl behind the scenes as on opening night.

Gaiety, verve, spontaneity overflowed in full measure from the stage, making up for any lack in experience among the newest Troupers, and were augmented by the spirited piano accompaniment of Gerita Hanna. Everybody had a good time. As a morale builder for civilian and uniformed man alike, the First Theatre, now in its seventh year of sold-out weekend houses, rates one of the bouquets it has the pleasant custom of giving to birthday and anniversary celebrants within its gates.

Dainty, appealing Carmen Mercante, in her second important part with the Gold Coast Troupers, played the highly dramatic role of Bertha in a way to wring the heart, and was supported by Jim Jensen as Philip Hamilton, in a role both heroic and romantic, with professional excellence. Wilma Bott as the tippling, stony-hearted factory forelady, gave her

POETRY

BELOW THE MENDOCINO

*Rancho Del Mar—below the Mendocino:
Sea-molded hills, like squaws with faded shawls,
Lean-jawed, black-braided bucks, sad-eyed papooses,
Emaciated ponies . . . dispossessed
Alike, in turn, by Spaniard, Russian, miner:
The wanton, wasteful saga of the West.*

*Steep cypress wind-breaks, down to the Pacific,
Sure-footed flocks that graze sea-misted slopes,
Precipitous gull-rocks where abalone
Whets with its pearl the fisherman's small hopes—
Old eucalyptus groves—a ragged huddle,
Corral of stallions . . . where a pinto lopes.*

*How long, how long these coastward hills, wind-carven,
Will guard the bronze-skin tenant of the land?
How long till sea-wind slopes, denuded, trampled,
Turn loose the white destruction of the sand! . . .
Leaving us legacy of hills, unbroken,
They do not question, now . . . nor understand.*

—BLANCHE LOFTON

MOCCASIN-TREAD

*Arrow-swift you come through the past,
Morning-clear,
Treading with moccasin feet upon my heart—
A carpet of pine needles,
Summer-thick,
Pungently aromatic with your afternoon-sun warmth—
I see grasses undulating with exquisite grace
In flowing mountain water.
Bark chips float to the bend,
Are caught within a mass of sticks—*

*I pause, remembering, while Life flows on.
I see a river of fog lying in a valley,
Glacial white, and my heart is stilled
With the beauty of a memory—
I see the regal redwood, proud and strong,
Defying fire and storm.
I see thunder clouds and rain
And sun upon the western hills.
I send a smoke-signal, leaping high—
"Always, always I will remember."*

*Suddenly—a twig snaps, shattering my thoughts,
And you leave on moccasin-feet.*

—DOROTHY LOOSLEY

FREE THOUGHT, FREE VERSE AND FREE THINGS

*Round and round within my mind
Surges a quiet song
Discovered in my youth
Of wild sweet winds
Coursing through the rocky clefts
Of Blue Pacific's shore.
I harked the winds' song
As I idled on the brink
Casting forth my long line
To snare the creatures of the deep.*

REVIEWS

usual fine, convincing, full-bodied performance. Allan Sonin and Phyllis Setzer richly earned the hisses they provoked as the arch villains, David Carter and Lizette Graham, whenever they appeared, and when the former assumed his added role of judge he succeeded in giving it satisfying contrast, no minor feat in the days of manpower shortage.

Wayne Edwards, doubling as the pinch-penny factory owner, Caleb Carson, and Conrad Bascomb, the tottering parent of the persecuted heroine, gave to each part the same intense, unshakable sincerity that First Theatre audiences have long delighted to witness. Darwin Law played the reforming wastrel, Jack Ryerson, with infectious zest, his wronged sister portrayed on Saturday night by that ready and talented veteran, Louise Welty, substituting for Margaret Hartigan to whom hearsay accords no small share of laurels. Jim Meagher as Dick Rivers, Corporal James Mellor as Jasper Carter, Stanley Butera as Joe Carson and Bob Ruddy as an officer completed a cast which has contributed mightily since New Year's Eve to merriment hereabouts.

The olio, ranging in mood from the sentimentality of the gay nineties, through colorful Spanish dancing to the hilarious "Home James and Don't Spare the Horses," brought back all the play cast, plus Mr. Wong, a blase canine of the chow family, and brought down the house. It would be difficult indeed to select headline acts from among such numbers as Wilma Bott's cockney travesty on Anne Boleyn, Louise Welty and Allan Sonin in Splash Me, Darwin Law as the Farmhand and Stanley Butera as his bovine stooge in Father Put the Cow Away and the bewhiskered Gold Coast Quartette composed of Allan Sonin, James Mellor, Jim Meagher and Darwin Law. Jim Jensen as Master of Ceremonies kept the olio going at fine tempo, fixing his name securely into the niche reserved for distinguished MCs of the First Theatre.

Members of the staff whose cooperative efforts have been giving so much to so many throughout the past weeks are Franklin Dixon, who designed and painted the effective sets; Kay Knudson, in charge of lights; Dick Johnson and Bob Ruddy, stage manager and assistant; Rose Martinez, assistant to Rhoda Johnson in the wardrobe department; Peanut venders Frances Martine and Mary Butera; head usher Lois Frost and her corps of pretty girls assisting; Joyce Hanna at the door; Barbara Greene who handled the street publicity; Lester Hartigan at the bar and Isabel Hartigan, custodian of the First Theatre.

Now in rehearsal, the next offering of the Gold Coast Troupers, Steve's Pal, under the direction of Beverley Wright, will have its gala opening on Friday, February 18.

MUSEUM ACQUIRES RUBENS

The M. H. de Young Memorial Museum announces the purchase of a magnificent oil painting by the famous Flemish master, Peter Paul Rubens (1577-1640). The large painting (approximately 75x57 inches) is now being displayed inside the entrance of the Park museum in a specially constructed framework. The subject of the painting is "The Tribute Money," and the composition of nine life-size figures, seen to the knees, illustrates the passage in the 22nd Chapter of Matthew, 16th to 21st verses.

The painting is especially prized because it shows so well the master's own brushwork, done in the period when Rubens himself worked on his paintings from conception to completion. It is in rich, warm reds, ambers and browns, soft grays and grayed blues; attention is focused on the Christ by a shaft of light emanating from the upper left of the picture onto him, and by the golden halo above his head.

"Judas, the Man Who Failed," will be the sermon theme on Sunday morning at the Church of the Wayfarer. Was Judas the arch-traitor he has been reputed to be? There is much evidence to the contrary which will be considered. The selections are: "Praise Jehovah," "O Isis and Osiris," and "Gloria in Excelsis." The Church School begins at 9:45; the Church Service at 11:00. Visitors are cordially invited.

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "The prophet of to-day beholds in the mental horizon the signs of these times, the reappearance of the Christianity which heals the sick and destroys error, and no other sign shall be given," (p. 98).

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Sadie Hawkins Dance

The Sadie Hawkins dance was a big success. From 8:30 to 12:00, everybody, especially the girls—enjoyed themselves a lot. The girls were let off pretty easily with only 15c to get in. Cokes were 10c, which made a total cost of 25c in all for most of the prospective Sadie Hawkinses.

A Virginia Reel and a Conga line helped to pep up and exhaust everybody. The costumes worn by the girls were both colorful and comfortable. The corsages presented to the boys by the girls accented the early spring, as these works of floral design were largely composed of young vegetables with carrots and onions predominating.

Freshman Elections

Last Friday, the Freshmen held a class election. Bob Simons was named president, Bill Sapsis vice-president, Mary Gregory secretary, Jim Snively treasurer, and Henry Moltini sergeant-at-arms.

Volleyball Game

Last Wednesday another noon volleyball game was played between the Juniors and the Seniors. According to the Juniors it wasn't a very exciting game, and was a walk away. The Juniors won with the score of 41 to 12.

Victory Dance

This Friday, February 4, 1944, after the game with Hollister the Juniors at Carmel High are going to give a victory dance. At least they hope it will be a victory dance. The dance will be held in honor of the Carmel team, and will take place at the high school cafeteria from 9:30 to 12:00. The cafeteria will be decorated with school colors—red and grey.

The committee in general charge are: Jim Heisinger, Bill Rissel, Bill Finger, Andrea Del Monte, Frank Gambee, and Alice Williamson. The refreshment committee is composed of the following: Bill Finger, Bill Rissel, Betsy Roeth, and Frank Gambee. The following are on the clean-up committee: Florita Botts, Alice and Elizabeth Williamson, Bill Finger. The patrons and patronesses are: Mrs. Brey, Mr. Marrs, and Dr. and Mrs. Dormody.

Lightweights Close—Heavies Win

The Carmel Lightweights lost to the P. G. Lightweights last Saturday night by a score of 21-11. The Heavies won their game 26 to 19. The Padres started out with the lead and from the first quarter to the end of the game the boys really played basketball. By the end of the first quarter the score was 11-2 in their favor, at the half it was 17-3 in their favor, the third quarter found Carmel still in the lead with a score of 19-11.

In the last quarter the P. G. Breakers started to pour on the heat and for a while the game was really close, but when the final whistle sounded among the cheers of the rooters, Carmel was on top with a score of 26-19. Milt Thompson was high point man.

Coach Rudd of Carmel claims that both teams are going to get some more practice in fundamen-als and he promises good results in the coming game this Saturday when Carmel tangles with Hollister.

Ten cents was deducted from the price of every ticket (25 cents) and contributed towards the "March of Dimes." This idea that Mr. Getsinger thought of, brought the "March of Dimes" a total collected at the high school to $26.40.

Red Cross

By HELEN A. FIELD

Within the next week or ten days Mrs. Walter Lenahan, Chairman of Home Nursing for the Carmel Chapter of American Red Cross, plans to start a course in Home Nursing to be held at Chapter Headquarters.

In the present emergency when so few doctors and nurses are left to care for the sick at home, and when hospitals, filled almost to overflowing, are unable to accommodate any cases except the most urgent, the people left at home must carry the responsibility of caring for cases of sickness and accident. It is imperative that every woman who can possibly do so should fit herself to give proper care to members of her own household. The course in Home Nursing is practical and informative. It will give confidence to those who take it and show them how to care for their own sick.

Registration for the course should be made at Carmel Red Cross Headquarters as soon as possible.

At the annual meeting of Carmel Chapter Red Cross, Miss Jane Burritt was re-elected Chairman of the Chapter. Officers elected for the coming year are: Miss Jane Burritt, chairman; Miss Helen Heavy, vice-chairman; Miss Hope Hasty, treasurer; Dr. Blanchard P. Steeves, secretary.

Miss P. Leslie King continues as executive secretary. Mrs. Hobart Prince will again serve as chairman and Mrs. C. F. H. Jarvis as vice-chairman of Special Volunteer Services.

The only War Bond you'll ever regret is the one you didn't buy!

Martinez-Du Casse Wedding

Miss Micaela Martinez became the bride of Staff Sergeant Ralph S. Du Casse of the U. S. Army Specialized Training Program, in a ceremony solemnized by a nuptial mass at the Mission San Carlos de Borromeo on Tuesday morning, February 1, Father Michael O'Connell officiating.

The Mission, with its candle-light altar decked in white lilies and a shaft of morning sunlight slanting down from its high southern window, formed an impressive setting for the ceremony, witnessed by a large number of friends from Carmel and the Bay region, gathered in honor of the popular young couple.

The lovely, dark-haired bride wore a gown of white Chinese brocade silk, designed by Lieut. Eduard Sebesta, now attached to the Camofleurs. Her exquisite lace veil, worn for the third time by a bride in Carmel Mission, was made originally for the wedding of Mrs. Mary Solari, by two of her aunts, who were sisters in a convent in Ireland. She carried a white prayer book, a silver rosary and a spray of white orchids.

Matron of honor was Mrs. June Hass, well-known sculptress of San Francisco, clad in a gown of celestial blue Chinese silk made in medieval design, and carrying a frilled bouquet of white Chilean jasmine. Major Charles McCauley was best man and ushers were Mr. E. Franklin of Carmel and Mr. Joseph McCloskey of San Francisco.

Exceptionally fine was the music furnished for the occasion by Noel Sullivan as organist and a choir composed of Mesdames Blanche Gibbs, Edythe Fonteneau, Marigold Gulick, Ruth Cooke, Gladys Young, Mr. Sam Miller, Lieut. William Mahoney, U. S. N. and Mr. Joseph Tissier, tenor of the San Francisco Opera Company, who spent several years singing in Italy prior to the war, and who drove down from his home in San Mateo to assist the choir. Selections included: Kyrie and Angus Dei-Eisenheuer; Sanctus, Benedictus—Gounod; Ave Maria (15th century)—Acadelt; In Te Speravi (offertory for nuptial mass)—Rossini.

Following the ceremonies, a wedding-breakfast was served at the Carmel Point home of Miss Harriet Dean and Mrs. Elsie Martinez, mother of the bride. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. R. Ellis Roberts, Mrs. Jesse Lynch Williams, Dr. Margaret Chung of San Francisco, Miss Alison Stilwell, Major and Mrs. Charles McCauley, the Misses Jean, Patty and Ann Bates, Mrs. Joseph Hooper, Mrs. Curtis O'Sullivan, Miss Ellen O'Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. James Cooke, Mrs. Gladys Young, Mr. Noel Sullivan, Father Meehan of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. E. Franklin, the Misses Genevieve Sullivan and Nora Gunn and Mr. Joseph McCloskey of the San Francisco Catholic Theatre Guild, Mr. Juan Oronoz, Mrs. Ruth K. Roberts of Piedmont, Miss Virginia Hale, Mrs. Louise Fry, Mrs. Mary Solari, Mrs. Acton Hall, Mrs. Marigold Gulick and Mrs. Claribel Zuck.

The new Mrs. Du Casse, daughter of the late Xavier Martinez, famed artist and head of the Fine Arts department of the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland, and Mrs. Elsie Martinez of Carmel, is a native of San Francisco. After graduating from the College of Arts and Crafts, where she received her groundwork under her father's instruction, she studied in the San Francisco School of Fine Arts and was a student of sculpture under Ralph Stackpole and fresco with Arnautoff. She has already made a distinguished name for herself in the field of liturgical art, her most recently completed work forming the decoration of the Navy chapel at Treasure Island. She is now engaged upon murals for the new chapel at the Monterey Naval Air Station.

Staff Sergeant Du Casse is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Du Casse of Cincinnati, Ohio. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and entered the service in March, 1941. Last August he was selected to embark upon the Army Specialized Training Program at Regis College, Denver, where he is studying in the area and language division, and following a brief honeymoon spent in Carmel he will return to complete the three months remaining of the course.

Mrs. Du Casse will continue to make her home in Carmel until her husband's graduation, at which time plans will be made conforming with his further orders.

A Lecture on Christian Science
Entitled

Christian Science: The Gospel of the Comforting Christ

by
Harry C. Browne, C. S.,
of New York City
Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother
Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts

"The Gospel of the Comforting Christ" was the subject of a lecture on Christian Science delivered by Harry C. Browne, C. S., of New York City, at The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel, Sunday, January 30. The lecturer was introduced by Mrs. Mabel S. Frazier.

Mr. Browne explained in clear detail that the gospel or good news must be true news, because God is good and God is Truth. The scientific fact of God's allness, His presence, power, intelligence, and activity, necessarily renders all evil or bad news false, untrue, possessing neither power nor actuality, presence nor intelligence.

Starting with the good news of the Bible account of God's spiritual creation of the universe and man, the speaker recounted many instances of God's revelation of Himself to the ancient prophets and apostles, culminating in the gospel or good news of the coming of Jesus of Nazareth, and his short but highly successful experience in the flesh. Christ Jesus, because of the lack of preparedness on the part of his disciples to recognize spiritual values and accept them, frankly told his students, "I have yet many things to say unto you. Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth."

Jesus desired his disciples to look to the Christ, Truth, the Messiah, rather than to his person for the healing Principle. He also spoke of the "Spirit of truth" which was to come as "the Comforter," and Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, refers to her revelation as "the Comforter" promised by the Master. The lecturer clearly stated the difference between the man Jesus and the Christ-spirit which animated him.

He also made it plain that the Christ, or Comforter, was available to everyone and is revealed to the human consciousness through the study and practice of Christian Science. The Science presents the gospel, or good news, of Christ, as the spiritual idea of God, which is "infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love" (Science and Health, p. 465). This comforting gospel, when circulated, heals sickness and takes away sinful beliefs, and quiets the fear of death. It awakens men to the spiritual nature of God and themselves, rousing them from the apathy and indifference occasioned by the indulgence of material thinking to a new sense of joyous, productive activity, proving Paul's words, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

Vivian Larsen
Shows Technical
Skill in Concert

By F. L. McCLAIN

Vivian Larsen played for the Musical Arts Club last Sunday afternoon. She presented an ambitious program; she played it well, and it is a pity that there was not a larger crowd to hear her.

Miss Larsen opened her program with Bach—not the usual transcription, but two of the Preludes and Fugues from the Well-Tempered Clavichord. These were played with a nice sense of balance, and a clear articulation of the fugal voices. The Sonata, Op. 27 No. 1 of Beethoven followed, and here the pianist did some of her best playing, showing that she could command a beautiful singing tone. The most ambitious offering of the afternoon was the Brahms-Handel Variations and Miss Larsen gave a good account of herself in surmounting their formidable technical difficulties. Two Debussy Preludes and the Albeniz Triana completed the program, and these were brilliantly played.

Perhaps the most striking characteristic of this young artist is the earnestness with which she approaches her task. If her playing has faults—and what artist's does not?—superficiality is not among them. Throughout her program one was struck by her sincerity, and the artist who builds on this quality has a sure foundation.

the great need for earnest, prayerful thinking on the part of all citizens for the guidance and protection of our chief executive and the men and women of the armed forces. Prayers are also needed that our legislators may see the need to plan and formulate now the articles of peace which must follow the ending of the war. It was pointed out that victory had been snatched away in the past through lack of proper preparation for peace.

In concluding his lecture the speaker quoted a rule of Mrs. Eddy's for ending war and establishing a lasting peace (The First Church of Christ, Scientist, and Miscellany, p. 279): "The First Commandment in the Hebrew Decalogue—Thou shalt have no other gods before me—obeyed, is sufficient to still all strife. God is the divine Mind. Hence the sequence: Had all people one Mind, peace would reign."

Peninsula in November of that year and his marriage to the former Miss Jacqueline Smith took place at St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, in May, 1941. The young couple made their home near his post at Pearl Harbor until after the attack of December 7th when the then Lieutenant Cagwin was ordered to depart immediately on an important mission and Mrs. Cagwin returned to live with her parents in Carmel. Major Cagwin has been overseas for the past three years.

Lt. Fritz Barkan

Lieutenant Fritz Barkan, Jr., of the Army Air Force, was killed in the crash of a four-motored bomber at the March Field air base on Tuesday, February 1. The accident, due to engine trouble and a forced landing, cost the lives of three other crew members and the serious injury of six.

Young Lt. Barkan had many friends in Carmel, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Barkan of Palo Alto, own a home and are frequent visitors. His marriage to Miss Betty Reynolds, daughter of the late Norman Reynolds and Mrs. Reynolds, formerly of Scenic Drive, took place on August 21, 1942, in St. Paul's Memorial Church at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

A graduate of Stanford University, Lt. Barkan later attended the University of California and following the completion of his studies there, was engaged in state social service work at Visalia until he enlisted in the Air Corps. Associated with him in this work were John Rockwell, the late Bill Dickinson and also Miss Reynolds, the present Mrs. Fritz Barkan, Jr.

In addition to his parents and his wife, Lt. Barkan is survived by two sisters, Miss Louise Barkan and Mrs. Mary Hanselman, both of San Francisco.
